If you had everything you want and need without having to give something in return for that (thus trade-free), what would you love to do?

Did you ever questioned
the concept of trade?

What trade-free thing/activity do you like?

What is your favourite trade-free good/service?

Are your friendships trade-free?

What trade is the worst for you?

Can you imagine a world full of volunteers, open source projects and trade-free goods and services?

Do you think, we can automate boring, dangerous and monotonous jobs to free us from work? What would you do then with the time you gained?

What could you do to support/promote the trade-free idea?

What thing would you love to see as trade-free first?
